Preface

Although this Genealogy of the Rand family—which is a labor of love—has been uninterruptedly in preparation during several years, its inadequacy to her ideal is fully recognized by its compiler. Its publication has been delayed from time to time in an effort to obtain fuller data with which to bridge over the hiatus existing in certain lines of descent. She has conscientiously investigated every public and private source of information known to her; a voluminous correspondence has been carried on by her with reference to family records; the various public libraries of New York and Boston, and the Historical library of Cornell University have been diligently, and she thinks exhaustively searched in this department, and various New England towns which where the early homes of the race on this side of the Atlantic have been visited, and their church and probate records personally examined. Notwithstanding this careful and protracted search it is still entirely probable that there exist private family memoranda, letters and records which if brought forward would throw much light on doubtful points. In this way—and probably in this way only—the vacancies in the ranks may be ultimately closed up. It is thought that the publication of the material now in hand may stimulate and assist individual research, and any additional data which may be forthcoming will be welcomed and incorporated in a future edition.

It is a matter for deep regret that so little is known with certainty of the English antecedents of the family, but time and persistent labor may yet pierce the mystery.

Thanks are due to the many—so many that it would be difficult to name them—who have kindly given assistance to the compiler, and she is sincerely grateful for their help and the interest they have shown.

In this work it has been the object to make the system of numbering as simple as possible. Each person who is mentioned more than once has his own particular number. For instance, opening the book at random, we find on page 56 Zachariah Rand, whose number is 117, placed at the left side of the page. We read that he is the son of John, No. 62. We therefore turn back until we find No. 62 at the left side of the page. That happens to be on page 37. There we find that John, No. 62, was the son of Thomas, No. 25, and thus we continue. If, however, we wish to find the descendants of Zachariah, looking down the page we find the first child to be Asa-Williams, followed by a number, 199 in this case, at the right side of the page. The second child, Phebe, has no number following, which shows that nothing further is known of her. The name of Asa-Williams will appear again as we shall see by turning over the pages until we come to 199, found at the left side of the page, where we find whatever is known of him, and the names of his children.

A Genealogy of the Rand Family in the United States

In the Anglo-Saxon, Dutch, Danish and German languages, the word "rand" signifies a border, margin or edge. It first appears in print in England as a patronymic in the early part of the 15th century, when there were Rands at Rand's Grange, a small township near Bedale, and in York in 1475. In Evelyn's Diary he mentions "his friend Dr. Rand." The name was found in London in 1633; in Ripple, Kent, between 1600 and 1700; in Gateshead, County Durham, from 1578 on; in Northampton and Rowell, Northampton County; in Radwell, Bedfordshire; in Lincolnshire in 1599; in Clavesley, Northampton County; in Halsted, Essex; in Ashen, Essex; in Cromer and Broomhill, Norfolk and Hants; in Thorpe Market, Norfolk; in Norwich; in Barham, Suffolk County; in Inkburrow, Worcester County.

Burke, in the Encyclopedia of Heraldry, gives the coats-of-arms of the family as follows:

Rand, (Vicar of Norton, 1578, Prebendary of Durham, 1606; of Gateshead, County Durham and of London.) Or, a lion ramp. charged with three chev. Crest, out of a coronet, a boar's head in pale.

Rand, or Randes. Sa, a chev. between three crosses, crosslet fitchee ar. Crest, a marigold, stalked and leaved ppr.

Rand. Gyrony of twelve or and sa.

Rande or Rand. Northampton and Rowell, County Northampton. Or, a lion ramp. gu. charged on the shoulder with three chev. ar. Crest, on a ducal coronet, a boar's head coupé, all ar.

Rande. Gu. three chev. ar. within a bordure engr. sa.

Randes. (Radwell County Bedford.) Sa, a chev. erm. between three crosses, crosslet fitchee ar.

Randes. (Bliton, County Lincoln.) Az. on a chev. or, between three hawks' heads erased ar. in each of their beaks a slip of the second, two roses gu. leaved vert.

Randes. (Lincolnshire, 1599.) Az. on a chev. or, three roses gu. a canton erm. Crest, two lion's gambes erect sa. supporting a sword ar. hilt and pomel, or, (another crest, the gambes ppr. holding up a sword.)

Randes. (Clavesley, County Northampton.) Az. on a bend, ar. three mascles gu.

Randes. Vert, a lion ramp. or.

The earliest record of the name of Rand found in America is that of James Rand, who came to Plymouth in the ship "Ann" in 1623, and the next year had a share in the division of land; as his name was not mentioned in the division of cattle in 1627 and no further mention is made of him, it is inferred that he had returned to his native land.

Among those emigrants sent over by Capt. John Mason when he was endeavoring to colonize New Hampshire, was a Francis Rand who settled in that part of Portsmouth then called Sandy Beach, now Rye. Lands were laid out to him in 1653. He thus became a permanent citizen and had a large family of children.

The next in order of emigration is Robert Rand, who with his wife Alice, and several children came to this country in 1635 and settled in Charlestown, Mass., where the family has held a prominent position. The lists of ships arriving during that year are incomplete, and neither the name of the vessel in which they sailed, nor the place of embarkation has been ascertained; even the number composing the party is uncertain.

In 1682, a Henry Rand was living in that part of Concord, Mass., which was set off for Stow, of which place he was an original inhabitant. The records of his family are rather meagre.

Between these three—Francis, Robert and Henry—no connection has been discovered.

Many efforts have been made, particularly by some of the descendants of Robert Rand, to ascertain the English homes and ancestry of these early settlers, but as yet with small success. Many families of the name have been found—even many Robert Rands—but their relation to our emigrants is thus far only conjectural.

In 1657 there was a John Rand living in Braintree, where he still remained in 1662. The fact that he was a mariner is all that can be discovered in regard to him.

Robert Rand and Descendants.

1. ROBERT RAND, although not the first to come to America, is given the first place in the genealogy because of the larger number of his descendants and the greater completeness of their history.

Although the records of ships arriving in 1635 are not in existence, it is thought that Robert Rand came at that time because his wife, Alice, was admitted to the church in Charlestown, Mass., that year. Their son, Nathaniel, was born in Charlestown in 1636. In the Town Book of Possessions, dated 1638, mention is made of the property owned by Robert Rand, including one house on west side of Windmill Hill, sixty-six acres and three commons. He died in 1639 or 1640, although the exact date can not be ascertained, owing to the incompleteness of records for both those years. In 1658 widow Alice Rand and her son Thomas, jointly, had a town grant of thirty-four or thirty-five acres of woodlands and nine commons. Alice Rand was a sister of Mary, wife of Capt. Richard Sprague, who was said to be a daughter of Nicholas Sharpe. Both Capt. Richard and his wife left legacies in their wills to various members of the Rand family. Alice Rand died August 5, 1691, at the age of ninety-eight, according to the town record, although her age is given ninety-seven on her gravestone.

Robert and Alice brought several children with them; just how many will possibly not be known positively until the English records are found. Mr. Thomas B. Wyman, in the "Genealogies and Estates of Charlestown," gives the children as mentioned in Alice Rand's will. Many think, however, that there was another son, Robert, perhaps the oldest. In 1649 there was a Robert Rand living in Lynn, but ten miles from Charlestown, and those who had made the matter a study thought that probably he took his allotted portion upon coming of age, soon after his father's death, and settled in Lynn. This was laid before Mr. Wyman and, as he was particularly interested in the subject, he made a special research in regard to it, with the result that he wrote to a member of the family that he had come to the conclusion that Robert of Lynn was doubtless the son of Robert of Charlestown, and that he would make the correction in his revision of the "Genealogies and Estates," but death overtook him before he had accomplished it. One fact upon which he based his opinion was a deed dated 1709, in which the name of a grandson of Robert of Lynn occurs in connection with descendants of Robert of Charlestown.

Robert Keayne, a merchant of Boston, who died in 1656, left a legacy in his will to Robert Rand of Lynn. He came to America in 1635, and it is suggested that possibly they came in the same ship.

In this work the children of Robert and Alice are given in accordance with Mr. Wyman's final decision.

Children.

I.	Robert	2
II.	Margery ,	born about 1624.	3
III.	Thomas ,	born about 1627.	4

In early youth he resided in Beverly, Mass., and at the age of 14 he went on a voyage to sea. Soon after this both parents died, and he came to Boston where he served an apprenticeship of seven years, at the carriage and harness business.

At about 19 years of age he became deeply interested in religion, and joined the Baptist Church.

In 1803 he married Betsey Babcock of Milton, Mass., and thirteen children were born to them.

At about this time he was brought in contact with the Christian sect, and being much impressed with the truth of their doctrines, severed his connection with the Baptist denomination and became a preacher of the new faith, being ordained in Boston in 1806.

For a time his work was chiefly evangelistic in Boston, Salem, Haverhill and other places.

JOHN RAND.

B. Dec. 17, 1781.

In this year (1806) he settled in Essex, Mass., and remained there seven years.

In 1814 he removed to Woodstock, Vt., and while settled there assisted Elder Hazen in compiling a Hymn book for the Christian denomination.

He was settled at Danville, Vt., and at Bradford, Vt., and in 1822 removed with his family to Milton, Mass., where the family resided till his death.

The old homestead in this place has been retained by members of the family, and is still (1897) a gathering place for the younger generations.

In 1851, Mrs. Rand died, and in 1853, Mr. Rand was partially paralyzed, but lived till May 31, 1855.

He took a deep and active interest in the cause of anti-slavery.

The following is a portion of an editorial which appeared in Zion's Herald, Boston, Mass.. January 9, 1895.

FRANKLIN RAND.

"Upon the first day of the new year Franklin Rand was translated. For several days he had suffered from a severe cold, which culminated in apoplexy. He was present at the recent annual meeting of the Wesleyan Association, when he seemed in better health than usual and was characteristically genial and hopeful. Though feeble for many years, yet it had not occurred to us that it was possible he would soon be called away from earth. As often, on an average, as twice a week it was his custom to come into the Wesleyan Building for a pleasant word of greeting, inquiry and fellowship. We had never realized how much he would be missed when his footsteps should no longer be heard. Franklin Rand was in many respects a remarkable man. It is doubtful if New England methodism owes as much to any other."

"At a meeting of the Wesleyan Association, called to take action concerning his death, the following resolutions were adopted:

"The Wesleyan Association learns with peculiar sorrow of the decease of its oldest, and in many respects the most revered, member—Franklin Rand."

"Desiring to place upon our records some expression of our consideration, affection and veneration for our deceased brother and co-worker, be it, therefore,

Resolved, 1. We are grateful to God for his long, unsullied and useful life, and for the gentleness and Christian courtesy he manifested in all the years that we have been associated. He was indeed a Nathanael in whom there was no guile, and he taught us in these latter years how to grow old gracefully.

2. The Wesleyan Association makes most grateful acknowledgment, in this hour of its bereavement, for his long and successful services—from October, 1838, to

FRANKLIN RAND.

B. 1815.

August, 1868—as publishing agent of ZION'S HERALD. Serving the paper in the days of "small things," and with the meagre resources and help, he worked in every way to the limit of his strength to advance its highest interests. Never can this Association fail to be profoundly grateful for what he achieved for the paper in those thirty years. As a member for fifty-two years, his counsel has been especially valuable. The excellent Manual of the Association was prepared by him.

3. That the members of the Association attend the funeral, and that these resolutions be published in ZION'S HERALD, and a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

"His was a simple, faithful, but especially helpful, life. It was a delight to recall his gentleness and courtesy during all the years of a close and intimate acquaintance. For fifty-two years he had been present at every annual meeting of the Association. Franklin Rand loved his church, and was loyal to it and to all its institutions. There are many lessons taught by this life to which it would be a pleasure to call attention. The success which may be achieved by simple loyalty to conviction and by patient and persistent toil, is the most significant. Franklin Rand, in the days of his vigor, was magnificently useful because he was always dilligently at work and wholly absorbed in the business given to him to do. For those thirty years he knew nothing else but ZION'S HERALD, and if he had personally owned the paper he could not have done more to advance its interests. By frugality, and by constant and unremitting labor, he so successfully managed the paper that a fund of $40,000 was accumulated, which gave the members of the Association the confidence and courage to purchase the site upon which the Wesleyan Building now stands. Franklin Rand thus laid the foundation for the success which has since been attained. It was delightful to listen to him as he related his experiences of those olden times, when to be publisher meant that he was clerk, foreman, proof-reader, compositor and office boy."

"His frequent visits to the editorial rooms were a benediction. He had earned the right to come, and was always welcome. By our associates who had known him for so many years he was especially beloved. In his death we are personally bereaved, but memory recalls no word or act that it would fain forget. Could any life be more nobly lived?"

262. GEORGE-CURTIS, fifth son of John (171) and Betsy (Babcock) Rand, was born in Danville, Vt., December 13, 1819. In 1825 his father removed to Trinity, Mass., and the common schools of this town furnished the groundwork of his education. At the age of fourteen he was apprenticed in the office of the Boston Commercial Gazette, where he served the full term of his apprenticeship. He made a record there as a compositor of 1500 ems an hour. At the expiration of his apprenticeship, he spent one year at an academy in Newbury, Vt. Afterwards he returned to employment in the printing office of David H. Ela.

In 1842 he formed with Mr. Andrew Reid the partnership of Reid & Rand, at No. 3 Cornhill. The two partners constituted the working force, and a single handpress, with a small quantity of type, forming the plant. The firm shortly afterwards purchased The Sunday School Messenger, and later The Sunday School Teacher, both of the publications being sanctioned by the Methodist-Episcopal Church, and they were later on sold to the Methodist Book concern of New York City. At the end of three years, Mr. Rand purchased Mr. Reid's interests and continued under the firm name of George C. Rand & Co.

In 1852 he secured the printing of Uncle Tom's Cabin, the great demand for which necessitated constant enlargement of his facilities—800,000 volumes of these were printed at this time. The undertaking involved the running of the office night and day, requiring Mr. Rand's presence the greater portion of the time. Although the work at this time gave him a leading position in the trade, and was undoubtedly the foundation of much of his future success, yet it was gained at the expense of his health, and the overtaxing of his energies developed a physical trouble which for years rendered him an invalid, and which in the end materially shortened his life.

In 1854 his brother-in-law, Mr. Abraham Avery, was admitted to partnership, and from that date until 1867 the imprint of the firm name, George C. Rand & Avery, was known all over New England, and, in fact, in most of the cities of the east where books were published. The entire block, extending from No. 3 Cornhill to Dock Square, and from Cornhill to Brattle Street, a building six stories in height, was required for the business.

In 1867 the firm was changed to Rand, Avery & Frye, by the admission of Mr. Rand's nephew, Mr. Orrin F. Frye, and in 1871, following Mr. Frye's death, to Rand, Avery & Co., another nephew, Mr. John C. Rand, and a son, Mr. Avery Lewis Rand, joining the firm. At this time Mr. Rand was compelled by ill health to retire from the active management of the business.

His was the brain to plan, his the energy to execute. A man of strong determination, he made the opportunity to establish himself in business, and he was in no wise daunted by his lack of capital, or by the many obstacles that confronted him.

With deep religious convictions, and with unswerving integrity he began his life work, and these qualities, with his vigorous energy, his evident business ability, and his power to make friends enabled him to establish and maintain his credit equal to his needs. His obligations were always met, many times at great sacrifice, but each successful struggle only strengthened his position.

GEORGE C. RAND.

B. 1819.

He served his apprenticeship at a time when all the operations of the business were carried on in one room, and he became thorough master of his trade, so far as it had advanced. He was a growing printer, ever ready to try new methods, adopting such as proved of value, thus keeping in the foremost rank of his profession.

He took great interest in the artistic printing of wood engravings, and spared neither pains nor expense in doing his share towards the highest attainment then possible. An illustrated edition of Uncle Tom's Cabin, with drawings by Hammatt Billings, and engravings by John Andrew, two of the foremost artists in their times, bear testimony to the excellence of work that was performed by Mr. Rand at a time when wood engravings and their printing were very crudely executed.

Patient, persistent, giving unremitting attention to details, he enjoyed the satisfaction of seeing the business grow until it became one of the largest printing offices in the country. His life was given to his work, and only when failing health made it necessary for him to seek to regain it did he relinquish the burden, but so long as he lived his interest in it never slackened.

Mr. Rand at an early date joined the Methodist-Episcopal Church in Boston, continuing his membership in that denomination until his death. He was a charter member of the Boston Lodge of I. O. of O. F., a member of the DeMolay Encampment of Knight Templars, a director of the Union Mutual Insurance Company, and various other institutions. He never held a political office.

Mr. Rand was married March 17, 1842, to Mary Elizabeth Adams, of Portsmouth, N. H., who died January 13, 1845; November 26, 1845, to Almira Doane, of Thompson, Ct., who died April 7th, 1850; and January 16, 1851, to Mrs. Julia Avery Roper, of Wilbraham, Mass., who died March 14, 1874. Mr. Rand died December 30, 1878.

Francis Rand

and Descendants.

500. FRANCIS RAND was one of a company of men sent over to America in 1631 by Capt. John Mason, to settle the Piscataqua section. Nothing is known of his ancestry or former place of abode, and no connection is found between Francis and other Rands in this country at that time. He settled in Portsmouth, N. H., and lands were granted him in that part of the town which is now called Rye. His wife was Christina, but we find no official record of the marriage or of the births of their children, the earliest date given in the Town Records of Portsmouth and Rye being about 1700. Francis was killed by Indians September 29, 1691, his wife having been killed by them not long before while he had gone to the mill. It has been impossible to obtain a complete list of their many descendants owing to imperfect records.

| VI. Sarah , born February 12, 1738. | | |
| VII. Nathaniel , born May 21, 1740. | . | 524 |

511. A. NATHANIEL RAND, of Rye and Mary Noble of Portsmouth, were married February 24, 1734, per Portsmouth T. R. It seems probable that Nathaniel was a grandson of Francis, and I therefore place him among the other grandchildren. One of the same name, with his wife Mary, appears later at Scarboro, Me., where he owned property and he may very possibly be the Nathaniel from Rye. The land in the vicinity of Scarboro was previously owned by one of the men sent to Piscataqua by Mason in 1631. According to the Scarboro T. R., Nathaniel and Mary had the following children:

|---|---|-----|
| I. Nathaniel , baptized July 17, 1737. | | |
| II. Mary , baptized April 20, 1740. | | |
| III. Jeremiah , baptized July 25, 1742. | . | 525 |
| IV. Lydia , baptized May 24, 1745. | | |
| V. Christopher , baptized May 20, 1748. | . | 526 |
| VI. Benjamin , baptized August 25, 1751. | | |

512. EPHRIAM, son of Thomas (505), born March 23, 1737; was in the Revolutionary War, and died of small-pox at Chataugay, N. Y., December, 1777: married March 15, 1758, at Portsmouth, Mary Smith, who was born at Portsmouth, January 2, 1738, and died October 19, 1813, at Portsmouth. She married (2) Joseph Hall and had daughter Esther.

Children.

| VII. | Edward , born December 22, 1806. | 542 |
| VIII. | Jedidiah , born December 2, 1808. | 543 |

518. DOWRST, son of Samuel (508), born June 24, 1764; married Hannah Lang. They had a son, Bickford-L., and possibly other children. He was born in Rye, February 22, 1795, and died in Portsmouth, December 22, 1860. He married (1) Eunice Carter; married (2) Martha Bachelder. He was agent for Eastern Stage Company; removed from Salem to Portsmouth 1840.

519. BILLY, son of Samuel (508), born October 30, 1766; married Martha (Patty) J. Moses, daughter of Nadab.

Children.

- | | | |
|------|--|-----|
| I. | Sarah , born April 12, 1801. | |
| II. | Samuel-M. , born July 20, 1803. | 544 |
| III. | Levi , born October 24, 1810 (?); died unmarried. | |
| | According to Rye T. R., Billy married (2) Charlotte ———. | |

Children.

- IV. James-B., born September 5, 1811.
 V. William-J., born March 2, 1815. 545
 VI. Mary-A., born June 23, 1818.
 VIII. John-J., born May 20, 1823.

520. PHILEMON, son of Joshua (509), born January 18, 1732,—was probably the one who appears later at Scarboro', Maine. A Philemon Rand and Sarah Rand were married there, April 20, 1755, by Rev. Wm. Thompson, per T. R. They were admitted to church September 15, 1776. The records of the Maine families are very incomplete, and I can not vouch for the accuracy of family traditions.

Children.

- I. James, settled Westbrook, Me. Left four daughters.
 II. Michah, Micah, or Michal, born 1758. 546
 II. Philemon, of Scarboro'. Had son Sewell, and other children.

Descendants of Henry Rand.

of Stow, Mass.

HENRY RAND, of Stow.—Henry Rand was one of the original inhabitants of Stow, Mass., which was set off from Concord in 1682. He married, not long afterwards, Mary Crane. She may perhaps have been a daughter of Benjamin Crane, another early settler. No connection between Henry and any other Rand family can be found. The following records are taken from the town records of Stow, with a few additions from the town records of Harvard, Mass., and are vouched for as correct, so far as they go. They do not go farther back than 1720, are incomplete and, of course, give no relationships between families, so that as a family history they are very inadequate. In 1722 there was a Henry Rand in Stow who was a son of Henry. There was also a Jonathan Rand at that same time. In 1732 David Rand was Surveyor of High Ways, in 1735-6 Samuel Rand was field-viewer. These may all have been children of Henry. There is no further record of the son Henry.

JONATHAN RAND, son of Henry (presumably), married February 27, 1724, Abigail Whitney, of Lancaster. He died September 17, 1785, age 86. She died November 18, 1757, age about 56. He was one of the founders of the church in 1733.

Descendants of Thomas Rand, of Middletown, Conn.

1. THOMAS RAND and Esther Hurlbert were married February 28, 1737, at Middletown, Conn. It has as yet been impossible to ascertain the place of birth and the ancestry of this Thomas Rand, though judging by the names of his descendants it is surmised that he belonged to the Charlestown, Mass., family.

The members of this branch being numerous it is judged advisable to number them, though it must be borne in mind that these numbers have no connection with any other branch.

Brigden Family.

THOMAS BRIGDEN came from Faversham, County Kent, England, in the "Hercules," embarking at Sandwich, with wife Thomasine and two children. He was an inhabitant 1634. His son Thomas married Mildred Carthrick, daughter of Michael Carthrick, of Ipswich, who embarked at London, 1635, in the "Elizabeth & Ann," with wife Sarah and daughter Mildred, age 2. Mildred died July, 1726. Their son, Nathaniel Brigden, baptized December 30, 1666, married Elizabeth Waffe (Whaff), daughter of Thomas Waffe, a sea-captain, and his wife Alice, and grand-daughter of Thomas and Katherine Waffe. Their daughter Elizabeth Brigden, born April 23, 1690, married 1710, Ebenezer Rand. See page 20.

Gordon Family.

NATHANIEL GORDON, born in County of Tyrone, Ireland, a farmer, of Scotch Presbyterian descent, intended to settle in Virginia, where he had a brother, but the vessel in which he sailed had to put into Boston. He married, in Ireland, Sarah Martin, and had John, Samuel, Elizabeth, and Hannah. He settled in Shirley, Mass., about 1742, and died in Peterborough, N. H., about 1789, age 83. The son John married, October 28, 1762, Mary Campbell, in Shirley, Mass. They had Josiah, Elizabeth, Nathaniel, Anna, Mary, Samuel, Daniel who died infant, James who died infant, Sally, James, William, Robert, Rebecca-W., and Daniel. Nathaniel, born 1767 or '68, removed with his parents to Bedford, N. H. In 1793 he married Mille Rand. Nathaniel's sister, Anna, married Robert Rand. See pages 60 and 61.

Dodge Family.

RICHARD DODGE, appeared in Salem in 1638, was probably born about 1602. His wife was Edith. He was son of John Dodge and his wife Margery, of East Coker, Somersetshire, England. Richard and Edith had a son Samuel, born in Beverly, 1645, and died 1705; he married Mary, daughter of Thomas Parker, of Reading and had a family of eleven children; was a farmer, residing in Ipswich. One son, Jabez, was born in Ipswich, March 22, 1686, was a tailor in Ipswich in 1710; next appears in Worcester; bought land in Shrewsbury in 1740, which he sold about ten years later; of Grafton in 1761; of Shrewsbury again in 1770; died about 1774. He married November 25, 1718, Margaret Knowlton. Their daughter Deborah, born August 26, 1725, married Solomon Rand. See page 35.

Parker Family.

JOHN PARKER, "an eastward man," perhaps from Kenneb-bec, with his wife Anne, was admitted to the church in Charlestown, Mass., in 1700. Their son Daniel married Anna Errington, daughter of Abraham and Rebecca (Cutter) Errington. Daniel's son Isaac, baptized December 4, 1692, married May 24, 1715, Grace Hall, born June 17, 1769, and daughter of Stephen and Grace (Willis) Hall, and grand-daughter of Stephen and Ruth (Davis) Hall. Their son John Parker, born July 18, 1725, married May 19, 1748, Abigail Center, baptized September 12, 1725, daughter of Timothy and Abigail (Blunt) Goodwin and widow of Samuel Center. Their daughter Abigail, born August 3, 1750, married October 28, 1773, Samuel Rand, and died September 8, 1795. See page 51.

Keyes Family.

ROBERT KEYES, was in Watertown, Mass., in 1633, with wife Sarah. They had son Elias and several daughters. Elias married Sarah Blanford and lived in Sudbury. Their son John was in Shrewsbury, Mass., in 1723, and was one of the founders of the church there. Major Keyes was a man of note in his day and was highly esteemed. After his death he was referred to as "the famous Major John Keyes." He married Mary Eames, daughter of Gershom Eames and Hannah, supposed to be the daughter of Solomon Johnson, of Sudbury, and born in 1656. Eames dying in 1676, leaving his widow, twenty years of age, with two children, Hannah and Mary, she married William Ward, of Sudbury.

John and Mary Keyes lived together about seventy-two years, he dying March 31, 1768, age ninety-three years and seven months, and his widow dying April 6, 1772, age ninety-five years and one month.

In 1723 Major Keyes' old house and a new one in process of erection (in that part of town now Marlboro') were burned to the ground and three of his children and two workmen lost their lives.

Joshua Wilder, and removed to Princeton, Mass., of which place they were the first settlers.
- VIII. Stephen, born 1718; died August, 1723.

Knowlton Family.

THOMAS KNOWLTON, and Margery Goodhue, "both of Ipswich," were married in Watertown, Mass., December 2, 1692. She was the daughter of Dea. William Goodhue, who was in Ipswich in 1635, and whose wife was Margery Watson. They were probably from England. Thomas may have been a son of the Thomas Knowlton who was a deacon in Ipswich in 1648. Thomas and Margery had Joseph and Ezekiel, born about 1707, and probably other children.

JOSEPH (son of Thomas) and his wife Abigail were admitted to the church in Shrewsbury, Mass., from that in Ipswich, in March, 1733. She died July 3, 1748; his death not recorded.

Children.

Lineage.

In Anno Domini 800, EGBERT, a descendant of the House of Cerdic, who had been banished to France because of the jealousy of Brihtric, the reigning Prince of Wessex, was upon the death of the latter, recalled and acknowledged King of the West Saxons. He soon conquered, one after the other, the Britons, the Mercians, the Cantii, and the South and East Saxons, and thus put an end to the Saxon Heptarchy. He was then crowned King of all Britain, and by proclamation he commanded the whole Heptarchy to be called England.

He reigned as King of England from 802 to 839. He was succeeded by his son

ETHELWULF (839-857), who married Osberga, a daughter of Oslac. He divided his kingdom with his brother Athelstane. The elder children of Ethelwulf succeeded him, but upon their death the kingdom fell to the fourth son

ALFRED (871-900), afterward called "The Great." He was born at Wantage 847; married Alswitha (daughter of Ethelfrid, a Mercian aeldorman, and his wife Eadberga, a Princess of the house of Penda), and had ELFRITHA, married Baldwin II., Count of Flanders (reigned in Flanders 879-918), the son of Baldwin I., called Bras de Fer, and his wife Judith, widow of Ethelwulf of England, and daughter of Charles the Bald of France. See note 1, p. 238.

Their son

ARNULF I. (918-964) married Adela, daughter of Heribert II. of Vermandois, and had

ARNULF II. (965-988), who had

BALDWIN IV. (988-1036), called "The Bearded." He married Eleanor (daughter of Richard the Good and his wife Judith of Brittany), and had BALDWIN V., DE LISLE, (1036-1067), married Adela (daughter of Robert I. of France and his wife Bertha, daughter of Conrad the Peaceful). See note 2, p. 239.

They had

MATILDA, married William of Normandy, who in 1066 became conqueror of England. They had

HENRY I., King of England (1100-1136), who married Matilda (daughter of Malcolm III. of Scotland and his wife St. Margaret, niece of Edgar Atheling and grand-daughter of Duncan I.), and had MATILDA, married first to Henry I. of Germany, and secondly to Geoffry I. of Anjou, Plantagenet. See note 3, p. 239.

The son by the second marriage

HENRY II., King of England (1154-1189), married Eleanor, Countess of Aquitaine, and widow of Louis VII. of France, and had

JOHN, King of England, surnamed Lackland (1199-1216); compelled by his barons to yield Magna Charta at Runnymede; he married Isabella of Angoulême, daughter of Aymer Tailfefer, Count of Angoulême; and had

HENRY III., King of England (1216-1272), married Eleanor, daughter of Raimond de Beranger, 4th Count of Provence, and had

EDWARD I., King of England (1272-1307), called "Longshanks"; married Eleanor, daughter of Ferdinand III. of Castile, and had

EDWARD II., King of England (1307-1327), commonly called of Caernarvon; he married Isabella (daughter of Philip IV. of France and his wife Jeanne, heiress of Champagne and Navarre, and grand-daughter of Louis IX. [St. Louis] and his wife Margaret, daughter of Raimond de Beranger, 4th Count of Provence), and had

EDWARD III., King of England (1327-1377); he married Philippa, daughter of the Prince of Hainault and Holland, and had as fourth son

JOHN OF GAUNT, K. G. Duke of Lancaster, born 1339, died 1399. Married as his third wife Catherine Swynford (widow of Sir Hugh Swynford, and daughter of Sir Payne Roet, King-at-arms in Guienne), and had

LADY JOAN DE BEAUFORT, died November 13, 1440; she married secondly as his second wife Sir Ralph de Neville, K. G. of Raby, 6th Baron Neville of Raby and 1st Earl of Westmoreland (son and heir of John de Neville, 5th Baron Neville, and his first wife Maud, daughter of Lord Henry Percy), and had as eldest son

RICHARD DE NEVILLE, K. G. Earl of Salisbury, born 1400, died 1460; married Lady Alice Montacute, only child and heir of Thomas, Earl of Salisbury, and had as 7th child

LADY ALICE DE NEVILLE, who married Henry Fitz-Hugh, 5th Baron Fitz-Hugh of Castle Ravensworth near Richmond, and head of a powerful local family between the Tees and Swale, and had

LADY ALICE FITZ-HUGH, married Thomas Fienes, of a French family, which accompanied William the Conqueror, and had

THOMAS FIENES, Lord Dacre of the South, made K. B. 1491. He married Lady Anne Bouchier, daughter of Sir Humphrey Bouchier and grand-daughter of John, Lord Berners, and had

CATHERINE FIENES, married Richard Loudonoys of Briade, Sussex and had

MARY LOUDONOYS, married Thomas Harlakenden of Wareham and Worthron, and had

ROGER HARLAKENDEN, of Kenardiston, Kent, and of Earl's Colne, Essex; born 1535, died 1603; married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Hardres of Hardres and relict of George Harlakenden of Woodchurch, and had

THOMAS HARLAKENDEN, 3d son; he married Dorothy, daughter of John Cheney of Drayton Hall, Berks, and had

DOROTHY HARLAKENDEN, baptized at Earl's Colne, December 12, 1596; married Samuel Symonds at Great Yeldham, April 2, 1617; buried in Toppesfield, August 3, 1636. They had several children. In 1637, the year following his wife's death, Samuel Symonds, with his five years old son William, emigrated to New England and settled in Ipswich, Mass. He was a magistrate for thirty years and Deputy Governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony for five years under Governor Leverett, dying within six months of the latter, in October, 1678. During his residence in Ipswich he contracted a second marriage with Martha Reade, widow of Daniel Epes. See note 4, p. 239.

The son who accompanied him from England was named

WILLIAM SYMONDS; he was born in Toppesfield, England, in 1632, was reared in Ipswich, Mass. He lived for some time in Wells, now in Maine, from which place he was Deputy to the General Court of 3d May, 1676, and in the two following years was one of the persons chosen to be associated with the magistrates in keeping the county courts of Yorkshire. Later he returned to Ipswich where he married Mary, daughter of Jonathan Wade, Esq., of that place. He died there May 22, 1679, leaving four daughters and co-heirs. His daughter DOROTHY SYMONDS, born in Ipswich October 21, 1670, married there December 19, 1695, Cyprian Whipple (born in Ipswich January 17, 1671), and, about 1708, removed to Stonington, Conn. See note 5, p. 240.

They had, among other children,

SYMONDS WHIPPLE, probably born in Ipswich, as he was of age to hold property in 1729. He was married in Stonington June 19, 1743, by the Reverend Ebenezer Rossiter, to Elizabeth Mason, born in Stonington October 16, 1720, daughter of Samuel Mason and his second wife Rebecca, widow of Robert Lippencott, and daughter of Elnathan and Rebecca (Baldwin) Minor. See note 6, p. 240.

Among other children, Symonds and Elizabeth Whipple had a son

JOSHUA WHIPPLE, born October 19, 1748; died November 7, 1807; married — Williams, of New London. He was for a time in the Revolutionary War, a private in Captain John Kellogg's Company, Colonel Leonard's Regiment from Hampshire County, Mass. (Hampshire at that time included Hampden County). He had a son, also named

JOSHUA WHIPPLE, born April 30, 1775; died July 8, 1820. He married Huldah, daughter of Isaac Cooley, of West Springfield, Mass., February 1, 1798. She was born March 11, 1777, and died February 20, 1826. Their daughter

LUCY WHIPPLE, was born May 26, 1805; she married Jasper Raymond Rand, September 5, 1823; died January 30, 1868. Their son

JASPER RAYMOND RAND, born in Westfield, October 17, 1837, married October 11, 1860, Annie M. Valentine, (see note 7, p. 241), and had as first child

FLORENCE OSGOOD RAND, born in Westfield, Mass., September 8, 1861.

Notes.

They had as third son

SAMUEL SYMONDS, "one of ye Cursitors in Chancery; bought ye place in Toppesfield called Oliver's 100; went into New England; married Dorothy, daughter of Thomas Harlakenden of Colne."

NOTE 5. CYPRIAN WHIPPLE, born in Ipswich 1671, was the son of Lieutenant John Whipple, born 1632, died 1695. The latter was Lieutenant of Militia and Deputy to Legislature; he, in turn, was son of Matthew Whipple, born in Bocking, Essex County, England, in 1605; died in Ipswich, Mass., September 28, 1647.

NOTE 6. MAJOR JOHN MASON, was born in England in 1600. Together with Myles Standish, Lyon Gardiner and John Underhill he was associated with Sir Thomas Fairfax in his campaigns in the Netherlands before he emigrated to New England. He married, secondly, July, 1639, Anne Peck, daughter of the Reverend Robert Peck, of Hingham, Mass., and later of England. Mason was the leader of the attack on the Mystic Fort in May, 1637, when the Pequot Indians were nearly exterminated and the safety of the white settlers secured. After the close of the war he settled in Saybrook, Conn., and in 1659 removed to Norwich. He was a founder of three towns—Windsor, Saybrook and Norwich. In May, 1660, he was elected Deputy Governor of Connecticut, and the choice was ratified by Charles II. in 1662. He died in 1672, having been Major-General of the Colonial Forces over thirty years, and a magistrate twenty-four years. His son

DANIEL MASON, afterward Captain, was born in Saybrook in April, 1652, and died in Stonington, January 28, 1736. He was the founder of the Lebanon family. He married, firstly, Margaret, daughter of Edward and Elizabeth (Weld) Dennison; and, secondly, Rebecca, daughter of the Reverend Peter and Rebecca (Ibrook) Hobart. By his second wife he had

SAMUEL MASON, born in Stonington February 11, 1686, where he married April 15, 1712, Elizabeth Fitch, and where she died February 8, 1715. He married again February 22, 1720, Rebecca, widow of Robert Lippencott, and daughter of Elnathan and Rebecca (Baldwin) Minor. His first child by his second wife was ELIZABETH MASON, born in Stonington, October 16, 1720; married to Symonds Whipple, June 19, 1743, by the Reverend Ebenezer Rossiter.

The Reverend Peter Hobart, maternal grandfather of Samuel Mason, was born in Hingham, Suffolk County, England, in 1604; he died in Hingham, Mass., in 1678. He was the son of Edmund Hobart who emigrated to New England in 1633, and settled in Charlestown, Mass., but in 1635 removed to Hingham, which town he represented in the General Court from 1639 to 1642. He died in 1646. The Reverend Peter Hobart was graduated from Cambridge, England, in 1629. After holding an English pastorate he joined his family in Charlestown, Mass. He settled a new town which he called Hingham, and established a congregational church of which he was pastor till his death. Four of his sons, all graduates of Harvard College, were ministers, and one of them succeeded the Apostle, John Eliot, at Newton, Mass., in 1764. One of his daughters married Captain Daniel Mason (as above mentioned); another daughter married Joseph, a son of Governor Bradford.

NOTE 7. ANNIE MARGARET VALENTINE is the daughter of Peter Valentine, born January 22, 1789; died June 3, 1840. While still a recent immigrant he married August 5, 1815, Mary, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Wannamaker) Osborn, of Hempstead, Rockland County, New York.

JOHN OSBORN, born September 30, 1749, died October 10, 1832; served in the Revolutionary War from 1776-1783, being a sergeant in the regiment of Colonel Ann Hawks Hay, Captain Blauvelt's company, from Haverstraw Precinct of Orange County, of which the present Rockland County was then a part. He was engaged in the various alarms and skirmishes along the Hudson river while New York was in possession of the British; was twice under the personal command of General Washington and took part in the battle of Stony Point. Years afterward a pension was accorded to him which he declined on the ground that he had been paid once for his services.

His wife, Elizabeth, born July 27, 1757, died January 24, 1814, was the daughter of Henry Adolphus and Elizabeth (Fredericks) Wannamaker, granddaughter of Peter and Klaertie Wannamaker, and great-grand-daughter of Coenard Wannamaker, a Huguenot, who emigrated to America in 1710 from the lower Palatinate of the Rhine.

John Osborn was the son of RIGHARD OSBORN, born March 16, 1717, died April 19, 1777. He was a ruling elder in the church at Clarkstown. He married Christina, born 1718, died 1802, daughter of Jacobus De Baun and grand-daughter of Joost De Baun (a Huguenot from the Cote d'Or, in France, who lived in Holland thirteen years before emigrating to America in 1683. He settled in New Utrecht where he was town clerk, school master and Bible reader in church. Not sharing the views of Governor Leisler upon the accession of William and Mary, he removed to Schralenberg, Bergen County, New Jersey, where the church records testify to his liberality and public spirit).

Richard Osborn was the son of NATHANIEL OSBORN, who with his brother William came to Hempstead, Rockland County, from Hempstead, Long Island, about 1712. They were sons of Thomas, Jr., who was the son of Thomas, one of the original settlers of Easthampton, Long Island. Thomas had lived for a time in New Haven, as did also his brother Richard Osborn, founder of the Fairfield family of that name. The three brothers, John, Richard and Thomas emigrated from Maidstone, Kent, in 1635.
